

The Anglo Nubian breed while not known for the volume of their milk, are known for rich mild milk that suits a variety of cheeses. Our herd roams freely in rye and clover paddocks helping themselves to tree fodder we make available to them. They are excellent stewards of the land and we are excellent stewards of them. In Swiss style, they each have a bell on their collars for fun and function. We love them dearly.

